Property Description

Set in the desirable mountain community of San Salvador de Barú, this exceptional 22-acre property offers some of the most inspiring west-facing views in all of Pérez Zeledón. From its elevated perch at approximately 800 meters above sea level, the land opens to sweeping panoramas of the Pacific coastline, layered mountain ridges, and the kind of dramatic sunsets that light up the entire horizon each evening. Whether you envision a private residence, a boutique retreat, or a sustainable homestead, this location provides the perfect blend of beauty, climate, and practicality. One of the defining features of this parcel is its very large, flat building area—an increasingly rare asset in the coastal mountains of southern Costa Rica. This natural building pad offers more than enough room for a main home, guest house, gardens, a pool, or future expansion, all while maintaining unobstructed ocean and sunset views.
