Property Description

The Southern Pacific area of Costa Rica is particularly attractive to clients who are not only looking for world class restaurants, exciting tourist activities, fun nightlife, shops, amenities and services, but also amazing tranquil beaches, safety, peace and serenity, spectacular views, communing with nature and even the chance to own your own piece of a lush jungle paradise – you can find it all HERE! Ojochal has transformed from a small and sleepy South Pacific village into a center for expats who are looking for the tranquil and comfortable tropical life with a strong community of close-knit foreign settlers, plus a bit of fun and excitement! The end-of-the-road lot is very safe and private – a truly "gated community" with remote controlled access along with security cameras strategically placed within the neighborhood and a strong, well financed Homeowners Association, you can enjoy a peace-of-mind as you take in the beautiful, expansive and coveted whitewater Pacific Ocean views, proximity to established homes (with a few additional ones under construction), and lush jungle and mountain surroundings.
